Edited by renowned social anthropologists Dr. Maria Elena Martinez and Dr. Thomas Askew, this groundbreaking book brings together a team of leading scholars from around the globe to examine the ways in which globalization, technology, and social change are shaping the arts and aesthetics around the world. Through in-depth case studies, theoretical insights, and interdisciplinary perspectives, Arts and Aesthetics in a Globalizing World offers a comprehensive understanding of the complex interplay between the arts, culture, and society in the 21st century.

Arts and Aesthetics in a Globalizing World is divided into three thematic sections:

1. Global Flows and Local Expressions: This section explores the ways in which globalization is transforming the production, distribution, and reception of artistic works. Scholars examine the impact of digital technologies, transnational collaborations, and cultural tourism on the arts and aesthetics, highlighting the complex interplay between global interconnectedness and local cultural identities.
2. Aesthetics and the Senses: This section focuses on the sensory dimensions of artistic experience, exploring how the arts engage our senses of sight, sound, touch, smell, and taste. Scholars investigate the ways in which sensory experiences shape our understanding and enjoyment of art, and how the arts can evoke powerful emotions and memories.
3. Creativity and Social Transformation: This section examines the role of the arts in social change and transformation. Scholars explore the ways in which artistic practices can empower marginalized communities, challenge dominant narratives, and promote social justice. They also investigate the potential of the arts to foster intercultural dialogue, promote empathy, and build bridges between diverse cultures.

With its interdisciplinary approach, diverse perspectives, and rich empirical data, Arts and Aesthetics in a Globalizing World is an essential read for scholars, students, and anyone interested in the arts, culture, and society in the 21st century. This book offers a timely and thought-provoking exploration of the ways in which the arts and aesthetics are shaping our globalized world, and how they continue to play a vital role in expressing the human experience.
