By Clifford Ashley, Claudia Annacker

Damages in International Arbitration Under Complex Long-Term Contracts provides an in-depth comparative analysis of the legal principles and practical issues associated with the calculation and award of damages in international arbitration proceedings involving complex long-term contracts.

The book examines the different approaches taken by arbitral tribunals to the assessment of damages in such cases, considering the specific challenges posed by the long-term nature of the contracts, the complexity of the contractual relationships, and the often-significant economic stakes involved.

The authors draw on a wide range of international arbitration case law and scholarship to provide a comprehensive and up-to-date analysis of the current state of the law. They also offer practical guidance on how to effectively present and defend damages claims in international arbitration.

This book is an essential resource for practitioners, academics, and students interested in the field of international arbitration.
