The Basics of Mah Jongg

Mah Jongg is played with a set of 144 tiles. The tiles are divided into three suits: bamboo, characters, and dots. There are also four special tiles: the East, South, West, and North winds, and the red dragon, green dragon, and white dragon.

The goal of Mah Jongg is to be the first player to complete a winning hand. A winning hand consists of four melds and a pair. A meld is a set of three or four tiles of the same suit or rank. A pair is two tiles of the same rank.

How to Play Mah Jongg

To start a game of Mah Jongg, each player draws 13 tiles from the wall. The wall is the stack of tiles that is placed in the center of the table. The player to the left of the dealer then draws one tile from the wall and adds it to his or her hand. The player then discards one tile from his or her hand.

The game continues in this way, with each player drawing and discarding tiles until someone completes a winning hand. When a player completes a winning hand, he or she yells "Mah Jongg!" and the game is over.

Winning Mah Jongg

There are many different ways to win Mah Jongg. Some of the most common winning hands include:

- All Simples: A hand that consists of all tiles that are not honors (winds or dragons).

- Big Three Dragons: A hand that consists of four sets of three dragons.
- All Honors: A hand that consists of all honors.
