If you're considering a career in nursing, there are some things you should know before you start. Here are a few things I wish I knew before I started nursing:

- Nursing is a physically demanding job. You'll be on your feet for most of the day, and you'll be lifting and moving patients. It's important to be in good physical shape before you start nursing school.

- Nursing is an emotionally demanding job. You'll see patients at their best and worst. You'll have to deal with death and dying. It's important to be emotionally prepared for the challenges of nursing.
- Nursing is a rewarding job. There's no better feeling than knowing that you've made a difference in someone's life. Nursing is a profession that allows you to make a real difference in the world.

If you're thinking about a career in nursing, I encourage you to do your research and talk to nurses who are already in the profession. Nursing is a great career, but it's not for everyone. Make sure you're prepared for the challenges and rewards of nursing before you make a decision.
